Podcast Host: Hello, everyone! Welcome back to "The Podcast Explorers." I'm your host, Sarah. Today, we have a special guest with us, Mark Johnson, who is an expert on wildlife conservation. Welcome, Mark!

Mark Johnson: Thank you, Sarah. It's a pleasure to be here.

Podcast Host: Our topic today is endangered species. Mark, can you tell our listeners what an endangered species is?

Mark Johnson: Certainly, Sarah. An endangered species is a type of animal or plant that is at risk of becoming extinct. This means that there are very few of them left in the wild.

Podcast Host: That's important to know. Can you give us an example of an endangered species?

Mark Johnson: Of course. One example is the giant panda. There are fewer than 2,000 giant pandas left in the wild, mainly in China. They are critically endangered due to habitat loss.

Podcast Host: Wow, that's alarming. What can people do to help protect endangered species like the giant panda?

Mark Johnson: There are several things people can do, such as supporting wildlife conservation organizations, not buying products made from endangered animals, and spreading awareness about the importance of protecting these species.

Podcast Host: Thank you for sharing that, Mark. It's been an enlightening conversation. And to our listeners, remember, we all have a role to play in preserving our planet's biodiversity.

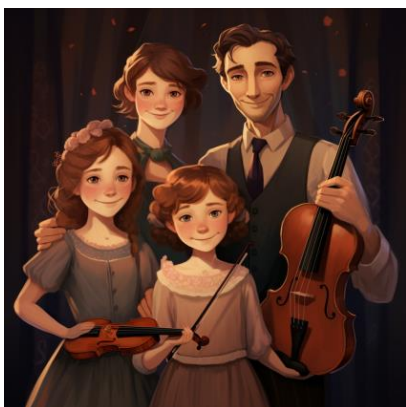

Agora, responda às seguintes perguntas:

The Johnson Family

The Johnson family is a close-knit family of four. Let's take a look at a conversation between the family members:

John (Father): Good morning, everyone. How was your day yesterday?

Emma (Mother): Hi, John. My day was busy with work, but it went well. How about you?

John: I had a long day too, but it was productive. And what about the kids?

Sophie (Daughter): School was good. I got an A on my math test, Dad!

Michael (Son): I had soccer practice, and we won the game! Go team!

John: That's great to hear, kids. Sophie, we're proud of your math grade. And Michael, keep up the good work in soccer.

Emma: Speaking of which, we should plan a family outing this weekend. How about a picnic in the park?

Sophie: Sounds fun! Can we invite some friends too?

Michael: Yeah, Dad, can we?

John: Of course, we can invite your friends. It'll be a great family day.

We're talking away

(Take on me)

I don't know what I'm to say

Take me on

I'll say it anyway

(Take on me)

Today is another day to find you

I'll be gone

Shyin' away

In a day or two

Oh, I'll be comin' for your love, okay

All the things that you say, yeah

Take on me

Is it life or just to play my worries away?

(Take on me)

You're all the things I've got to remember

Take me on

You're shyin' away

(Take on me)

I'll be gone

I'll be comin' for you anyway

In a day or two

Take on me

So needless to say

(Take on me)

I'm odds and ends

Take me on

But I'll be stumblin' away

(Take on me)

Slowly learnin' that life is okay

I'll be gone

Say after me

My Daily Routine

I have a daily routine that helps me stay organized and productive. Every morning, I wake up at 6:30 AM. I get out of bed, brush my teeth, and take a quick shower. Then, I have a nutritious breakfast with my family. After breakfast, I leave for work. I work as a software engineer, and I usually start my workday at 8:00 AM. I work in an office downtown, and it takes me about 30 minutes to commute. At work, I write code, attend meetings, and collaborate with my colleagues. I often have lunch at my desk, but I take short breaks throughout the day to stretch and grab a coffee from the office kitchen. My workday ends at 5:00 PM, and I head back home. In the evenings, I like to relax by watching TV or reading a book. I have dinner around 7:00 PM and spend some quality time with my family. After dinner, I check my emails and plan for the next day's tasks. Finally, I go to bed at 10:00 PM to get a good night's sleep. This is my daily routine, and I follow it during the weekdays. On weekends, I have more flexibility in my schedule, and I enjoy spending time with friends and pursuing my hobbies. Leia o texto a seguir sobre as diferenças de pronúncia no inglês mundial e responda às perguntas que se seguem:

English is a global language, and its pronunciation can vary significantly depending on where it is spoken. In the United States, for example, "water" is often pronounced as "waw-ter," with a distinct "r" sound. However, in British English, it is commonly pronounced as "wah-tuh," without the strong "r" sound.

In Australian English, some words are pronounced with a unique accent and intonation. For instance, "mate" is pronounced with a rising intonation at the end, making it sound like "maa-ait?"

In India, English is spoken with a unique rhythm and pronunciation influenced by regional languages. Words like "schedule" may be pronounced as "shed-yool" instead of "sked-yool."
